

I wish to register my negative feelings about the effort of the Banking industry to be exempted from the calling restrictions to their customers. People need to be free to initiate contact with their bank when they need their services, but still remain free from efforts of the banks to market their services on a regular basis! I really think this effort will result in a backlash to the industry.